the Pills are powerful antidotes to disease than any other medicine known to the world.

It is a common error to suppose that all the medicines should be taken under the counsel of an attending physician, and as no druggist is properly judge of a remedy without knowing the composition, I have supplied the following list of the names of the druggists who sell the Pills made to the whole body of Physicians in the United States and British American Provinces. If however, they should be by any one who has not received them, they may be had of the following:

Of all the Patent Medicines that are offered, how few would be taken if their composition was known! Their life depends in their markets on the mystery of their composition.

The composition of my preparations is laid open to all eyes.
